JAMS Team New Capabilities & Services

JAMS is pleased to offer three new very important services for our government and industry partners, Base Level Software Support Services, Information Technology Training and X-Plane Based Modeling and Simulation Training.

Base Level Software Support Services (BLSS)

BLSS is a very important time and cost saving software purchasing and license tracking service we off to our government and industry partners. JAMS analysts and purchasing personnel provide cost saving procurement, license tracing, renewal and database administration services for base-wide organizations and geographically separated locations. JAMS currently purchase and track over 5M worth of software annually. Current customers save over 20 percent on their software purchases and renewals. They are assured their licenses and renewals are monitored and tracked continuously to ensure all software remains current.

IT Training in Partnership with Technically Speaking Inc.

X-Plane Modeling & Simulation

We are delighted to offer to our customers involved in aircraft test and evaluation our X-Plane training services. X-Plane is software capable of modeling and simulating any aircraft in the world. Pilots, navigators, flight engineers, analysts, project managers involved in testing different aircraft profiles and capabilities can use X-Plane to perform the simulated test before actually conducting a live test ensuring the accuracy of their projections and resulting in large cost savings and more efficient and effective tests. See Figures 1 to 3.
